Dr. André Walton is an award-winning inventor, entrepreneur, and expert in organizational creativity. By his twenties, André had taken three patented inventions to global success—including a microphone favored by legends like Frank Sinatra. After selling his international businesses, he earned a PhD in social psychology, exploring the connection between creativity and mental health. He is the author of Embracing the New Era and currently serves as Visiting Professor of Creativity and Entrepreneurship at the Newport Business School. Today, André inspires audiences worldwide as a sought-after speaker, executive coach, and innovation consultant.
